

Human Growth and Development Learning Standards

Students will know the function of the human reproductive system and the parts of the human anatomy that comprise the reproductive system.

Identify characteristics of puberty and the effects of these changes on physical, mental, and social development.

Students will learn the correct names of the reproductive organs

Using a diagram, be able to locate these organs

Understand body changes in boys and girls during puberty. Identify individual differences in growth and development among people.

Understand the importance of personal hygiene - healthy actions that influence the functions of the body.